1. Sophomore Ashira Dobson gets low to snag a ball. "Playing softball is like listening to music you can't get enough of it," Ashira said.

2. Junior Branshea Brown gets ready to lead off first base. "We came together as a team towards the end, especially in the playoffs," Branshea said.

3. Junior Brittany Reid crosses over to stop a grounder. "Softball was really a great experience, I enjoyed playing," Brittany said

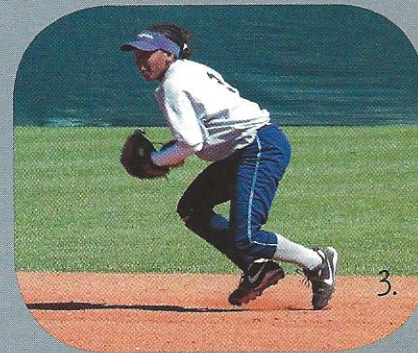

4. The team waited for their time to go up to bat. "Everyone on the team got along really well, that helped us on the field a lot," senior Selita Hills said.

5. Sophomore Sarah Smoak gets in her stance in the outfield. "I try to be a good role model and stay positive even in tough situations," Sarah said.

6. Freshman Horizan finishes off on the mound. "Both Jv and Varsity players did a really good job," Horizan Morrison said.

7. Sophomore Kimberly Robertson fields a ground ball. "We had a young team, but we came together well in the end," Kimberly said.

Heart of a Champion

Just as the year before the team came into the season very young, and they were highly underestimated. Overall the girls pulled through with some big wins both on the Varsity and Jv teams. Heart and desire brought the teams together in tough situations. As we all know age is only a number. When you can bring talent, hard work, and dedication together, success is sure to follow. "Our team has a lot of potential but there's still room for improvement," junior Sydne Youmans said. Many of her teammates agreed as well.

The teams started their seasons in the freezing afternoons of January and fought all the way through the spring season. The junior varsity team improved tremendously and ended their season proudly. The varsity team also ended the season on a good note during the 2006 playoffs. The amazing steps they took during the season were merely the start of a strong base for the seasons to come. Having the motto of never giving up, and never settling for less, kept the team going. The reasons aren't always justifying, but the way they grew on and off the field was award enough.
