Javonte was leaning on a friends car talking to them about how good their rims look. "I think that rims make a car look good. No matter if the car is raggy," freshmen Javonte Johnson said.

"Just Chillin"

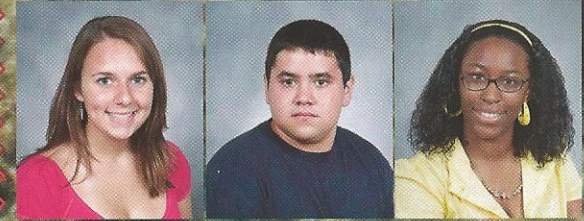

The parking lot was a place where students just hung out with their friends and talked about what they did that day or what they were going to do during the weekend. Besides just having conversation, it was also a place where they parked their cars. It was where they just sat if they didn't want to go home right then. -Matonya Ancrum
