After he talked to his friends, Eric took time out to complete his assignment for his next class. "Taking a foreign language is important to me because I need it for college," sophomore Eric Kirkland said.

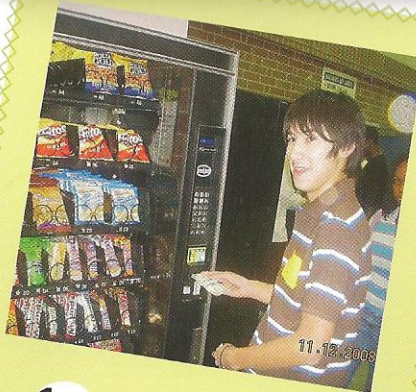

Kim was laughing with friends as she ate lunch. "I find it offensive when natives speak their language around me because I feel like they're talking about me," junior Kim Evans said.

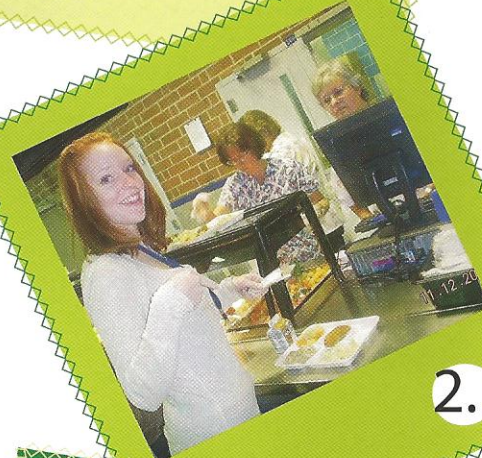

Into deep thought, Kristen thought of what language she would want to speak other than English. "If I could speak another language it would be Latin or Japanese because all languages originate from Latin," freshman Kristen Murdaugh said.

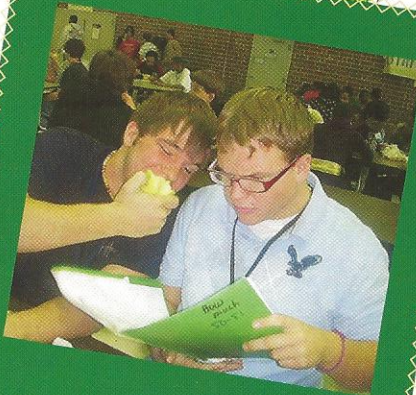

Amber stopped eating lunch to tell how many individuals she knew who could speak another language. "I know about 10 people who speak another language," sophomore Amber Wilson said.

1. Before going back to class, Trevor decided he wanted a snack to eat. "Other than English, I can speak Vietnamese," sophomore Trevor Pham said.

2. As Aubrey approached the register, she took time out to explain why the high school should have other languages. "The high school should have other languages because not many people want to take these, they should expand," senior Aubrey Hill said.

3. As he waited for the bell to ring, Andrew and a friend read an interesting article. "A famous person I know of who speaks another language is Justin Barra," junior Andrew Selvey said.
