

<http://www.cougarsread.info/>

Jerome McWilliams a freshman was in the library, he read a book of Robert Frost's poems. "Curiosity did not kill the cat it made the kittens,"

Jerome said.

Jerome's Friends!

Kristian Moore was in the Poetry and Pizza Club meeting in October, she read her poem she called "Your Fair Warning". "Keep on the lookout for my evil poetry cause you won't want to miss it," sophomore Kristian said.

Joshua Breece, a freshman, in the November meeting showed us that he can cover his eyes with the rest of his pizza. "There is a fine line between an artist and a serial killer," Joshua said.

Eat Pizza...Read Poetry

Betrayed By Kelly Linar
Of all the things you said to me,
Of all the things you use to do,
Of all the lies you fed to me,
I still managed to believe you.

The First Act in a series of murders.
By Joshua Breece
Boiling, filling, over flowing.
Never know just where you're going.
Simmering emotions, ready to pop.
Running, racing, wishing to stop.
The Club was started in the Spring of 2007 and was inspired by National Poetry Month.

To read the rest of these poems
- go to www.cougarsread.info/
- click on 4FUN then
- Poetry and Pizza

Stephon Bellinger 9 Rebecca Bjork 11 TerLandra Buckner 10

Cameron Cooper 10 Catherine Craven 10 Belinda Fryar 11
Jalacy Green 9 Nicki Hardy 9 Kellie Jones 10

Students whose hobby is writing

