

Seize the Peak

From serious business to competitions, Future Business Leaders of America was on the move. Being in the business field is hard work. With technology and business ethics moving so fast, FBLA members have strove to learn and lead. "I joined FBLA to get hands on business experience for after graduation," said senior Rainie Gordon. FBLA not only helped its students, it has reached out to the community each year. "The community service projects we do locally gives a sense of pride to FBLA and ourselves," said senior Samantha Light. FBLA had a big surprise for senior Da-Quanda Magwood. From our small town to San Antonio Texas, she went! She placed herself right into nationals. Having an experience like that was a once in a lifetime opportunity. This was our 2012-2013 FBLA who Reached the Peak.

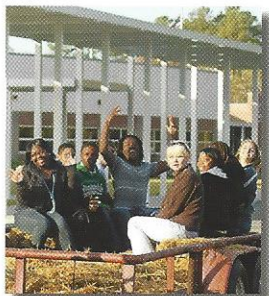

1. Seniors Paris Polite, Shakema Bennett, and Ivory Jenkins take a break while helping out at the Fall Festival.

2. Juniors Clay Robertson and Brantley Taylor are happy to take a picture with the South Carolina FBLA State President during District Rally.

3. While appearing happy and excited, Senior Da-Quanda Magwood takes a picture with a cowboy on one of her FBLA trips. What she enjoys most about FBLA is competitions and traveling. "Last year I made it to nationals and got to go to San Antonio, Texas," says Da-Quanda.

4. Senior Samantha Light progressively works on her District Rally project during computer class.

5. Seniors Calvin Johnson and Rainie Gordon enjoy helping their community on FBLA trips.

Some enthusiastic FBLA members ride on the trailer while having fun at FHES during their Fall Festival.

While participating in an FBLA event at Forest Hills Elementary, senior Shakema Bennett helps paint the faces of the students.

Senior Paris Polite and junior Jamie Hiott stand in front of a jumping castle while helping out at the Fall Festival.

"I like going to competition and competing. Also spending time with the members," stated senior Calvin Johnson.

