

Hook the Win

"Goal!" That is what you want to hear at the soccer games. Colleton County Boys Junior Varsity soccer team has played hard and worked hard. They have overcome all of the obstacles. Head Coach Edward Fitch said, "This year's team is young but with a lot of potential. Seeing how they have developed, individually and collectively so far, gives us a lot to work with in the future." The boys tried to work hard every practice to stay on top. With every practice, the team gained more strength and endurance for the next. The competition would do well to watch out!

1. Freshman Caleb O'Quinn, #25, listens intently to the coach's halftime speech.
2. CCMS student, Justin Williams #3
3. Some of the boys discuss play strategies before the game starts.
4. Freshman William Rast, #28, executes some skilled footwork to eliminate the opposing team from the play.
5. CCMS student, Riley Downey #17

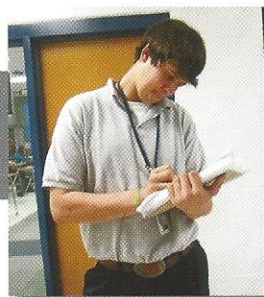

Senior Stewart Bailey has a talk with some of the team to tell the boys how proud he is of them. Varsity members often acted as mentors to help the younger junior varsity players mature in their skills so that they will make a great addition to the varsity team in the future.

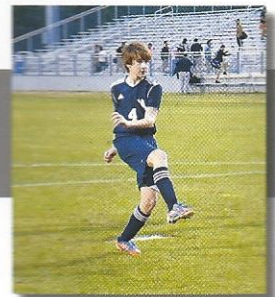

Freshman Charles Cummings quoted, "Soccer gets my mind off things."

Freshman William Rast's least favorite rule about soccer is that fact elbowing is illegal.

CCMS student Colin Thomas is warming up. "Soccer is very challenging," said Colin.

CCMS student Campbell Pryor stated, "My least favorite rule would be that you can't use your hands."
