

Assistant Principal

J. W. Stewart

As assistant principal of Colleton High School, I am highly interested in all phases of the school's educational program. If you were to ask me to name one specific area of interest, I would be compelled to say "the cognitive domain", because I am interested in the extent our influence has and will have in the lives of boys and girls.

Conceivably, the aim of Colleton High School is a commitment to excellence, excellence in that provisions are prevalent in that every boy or girl can develop to the maximum capacity. Additionally, each employee of the school is adequately trained for the position he is doing and is performing his duties in keeping with the best known administrative and teaching procedures, methods, and techniques. Consequently, the school is operated for the total development of the pupils.

Good learning takes place and blossoms freely in a classroom situation where rapport exists between pupils and teachers. Growth is evident when teaching is clear and plain. At Colleton, we strive to establish a conducive atmosphere for learning.

As your assistant principal, I go on record as perscriber to methods, techniques and activities which will enable boys and girls to get the most meaning out of that which they are taught. Enabling them to form concepts, make generalities, and solve problems are our ultimate goals.

Lastly, "Colleton Family," I want you to know that there is no bar to the assistant principal's office, other than, that dictated by the rules of courtesy, I shall always be available to assist you with your problems in any way possible.
