

The Big Time

Just A Step Away

When many students entered high school, their first goal was to become involved in sports. But not everyone was ready for the big time junior varsity or varsity. Some needed a stepping stone to prepare them for the real thing. B-team sports, the training ground for young athletes consisted of both girls and boys basketball. Joe Williams coached both teams. The teams were made up of 6-8 grades. The purpose of B-team was to prepare the players for success in junior varsity and varsity sports in the upcoming years. Chad Rowe said, "I think playing B-team basketball this year has helped show me what to expect in J.V. I didn't realize how much work it would be or how much responsibility it involved. The practices were hard sometimes it didn't seem like they were ever going to end. It all paid off when game time came around, though. It felt good to see all of our work come together on the court." The B-team girls ended their season with a 2 and 6 record. The B-team boys ended their season with a 2 and 6 record.

Hawk Fever! Perry Hunt, a player on both B-Team and J.V., puts up a jump shot against Beaufort Academy who is always tough.

Surrounded! Eighth grader, Wanda Herndon sprints down court hoping to make a layup.

B-team. L-R Melanie Hoats, Nicole Robertson, Stephanie Bailey, Ellen Herndon, Laura Kinard, Christy Fagnoli, Jennifer Housand, Wanda Herndon, Crystal Smoak, Joe Williams, Lee Stringfield, Chad Rowe, Frank Kellam, Joe McConnell, Perry Hunt, Patrick Ritter, Greg Stevenson, Jonathan Spell, Chad Spell, Matt Parler, Jon Bagget, and Ashley Woodard.

