

Teamwork

Not the Same Old Thing

The boys junior varsity team, under the guidance of coach Robert Ellington, installed a great deal of self-confidence in each player enabling them to play better as a team. "Playing football this past fall, with basically the same guys, really helped our teamwork," stated Shaw Regenovich, a freshman starter who transferred from Pinewood Academy. Teamwork, begun at an early level, will prove invaluable to this young group.

Many of the team felt that their greatest victory was over First Baptist, a conference win of 22-21. The toughest loss was against O.P. It was a hard loss because the War Hawks controlled most of the game. The J.V. boys showed outstanding abilities on both offense and defense. With good shooters such as Garner Regenovich, Craig White, and Shaw Regenovich. The War Hawks stayed high on the scoreboard. Awesome defense ability came from eighth grader Wes Pye. Compared to previous seasons this was definitely a great year for the boys and there is likely to be even more improvement next year. From a spectators view, basketball seemed to be one of the most popular sports at CPA. This interest in the sport is probably what inspired many of the players to go out for the sport, and gave CPA an edge over other schools.
