

Pat Padgett and Jenny Blevins, members of the graduating class, take down the American flag in front of the school. As this day ended, so did the 1993 school year. These are the days that will be remembered for a lifetime. Whether good or bad, victory or defeat, we pulled together and made our school a place not just for learning, but sharing. After all, people are what made 1993 — the year.