

SPIRIT WEEK

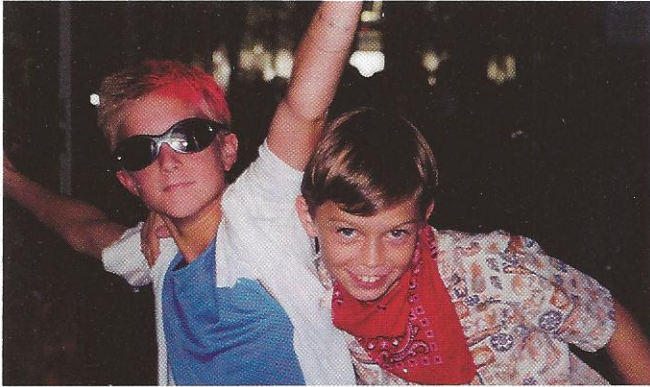

Everyone looks forward to Spirit Week, a tradition greatly enjoyed by all. This year, Colleton Prep was over-run by fashion failures, twins, drag-queens/kings, and blue & white kids. The banner contest was also held, which was won by the 9th grade. Wonder what next year will bring?!

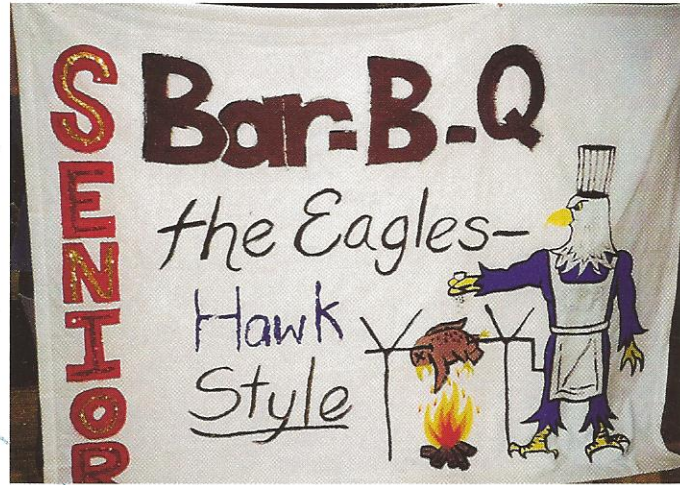

Some anonymous kid gets entangled during one of the Spirit Week pep rally games.

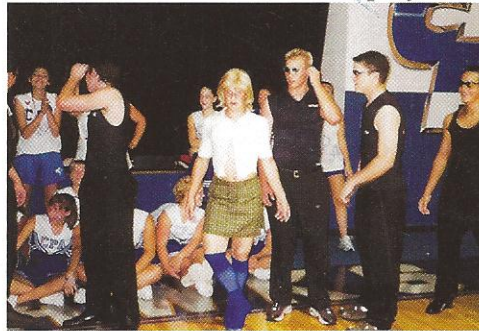

These buff bodyguards are ready to escort Ms. Spears down the runway.

A couple of "Too-Cool" dudes.

The Senior Spirit banner illustrated the Hawks bar-b-quing the Eagles. That's odd, one bird of prey cooking another bird of prey--weird.

Some bunnies showed up to escort one of the mock homecoming queens.

Hit me baby one more time! Everyone enjoyed Jason Brown's impersonation of Britney Spears, and his... her bodyguards weren't too bad either!

Your Voice: What was your favorite day of Spirit Week?

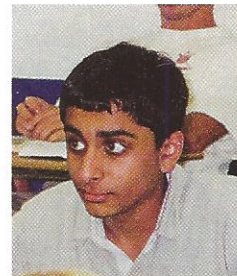

"Pajama Day, because I had a reason to buy new ones!"

"Blue and White Day because everyone was blue and white."

"Let me get back to you..."

"Blue and White Day because that's when the game was."

"I liked Blue and White Day best because I got to dye my hair!"
