The Beginning

What you should know
 Before this poem begins
 Everyone has always said
 That graduation is the end
 But of course you can see
 That it really isn't true
 Graduation is the time
 To start something new
 We've always been so safe
 In our protective little ball
 Never having the chance
 To really trip and fall
 We've hung onto each other
 And memories of the past
 But now comes our time
 To finally shine at last
 We will always remember
 The many tears we've cried
 And all we've overcome
 Standing side by side
 Now we're going separate ways
 And sometimes it seems real sad
 But we never shall forget
 The times we all have had
 What we may consider
 Learning all we've known
 We've actually been building
 Our foundation of stone
 All that we have done
 And all that we will do
 Will always reflect back
 On the one thing that's true
 No matter what's before us
 Or how the road bends
 It's what keeps us going
 The support of our friends
