

Once a War Hawk...

Colleton Prep: two words that are very special to every student, coach, and faculty member at our unique school. CPA is known for its small class sizes, well-rounded student athletes, and 'over-the-top' teachers. Colleton Prep is not just a small private school, but it is also a big family. The mother and father-like faculty members watch over and guide their students as if they were their own children. Colleton Prep excels in academics, athletics, and the overall qualities of a SCISA school.

CPA began the school year by working hard to prepare for the arrival of the SCISA Accreditation team. The hard work and dedication was worth while as CPA received a perfect score! Not only did Colleton Prep begin the year excelling in accreditation, but also in sports as the Warhawk football team played deep into the playoffs and the Warhawk cheerleading squad one the SCISA 1A State Championship! These are only a few examples of the excellence that Colleton Prep shows across the board. Academic excellence is among these many positive aspects of Colleton Prep.

This year, Colleton Prep has added college classes in the curriculum of sophomore, junior, and senior students. These early college classes from the University of South Carolina Salkehatchie not only increase students' college preparation, but they also give students a jump start in college with early college credits. Another example of academic excellence is the addition of AP classes that also give students the opportunity to jump start their college education. Colleton Prep has only made positive changes throughout the years and will continue to further these great changes!

Always a War Hawk!
