

Madeline Jane Hill

Madeline,
 It seems like only yesterday we were bringing you home from the hospital. You don't remember but we will never forget that you had colic and cried for the first 3 months of your life. But once you finally stopped crying the joy of having a wonderful daughter began. Every stage of your life has been so much fun and rewarding for all of us. You have had such an exciting life and hardly ever missed any activity. World Changers, softball, cheerleading, basketball, running half marathon, National Honor Society, coon hunting, church activities and on and on. Watching you grow into the beautiful young lady, on the outside and the inside, you have become has been a true blessing from God. Life will have its ups and downs and if you remain Christ centered, as you are now, there will be nothing that you cannot handle. You are now about to start an exciting and challenging stage of your life. We have the utmost confidence that with your intelligence, drive, discipline, courage, wisdom, and maturity you will reach your goals.

Love,
 Mom, Dad, Kendall, and Jonathan

Cameron Farish

Cameron,
 You made it! We can't believe you are a senior and are about to graduate. My the time has flown! We are very proud of you and the young man you have become. We wish you the best in life in whatever you choose to do. Always remain honest and be respectful, never forget to put God first and thank him daily for all of His blessings. May God forever hold you in the palm of his hands.

We Love You,
 Mom & Dad

Bubba,
 Thank you for being the best big brother ever. God has shown us to never take things for granted. Who would have thought you would be able to play football after the wreck? God gave me the most annoying brother ever but I love you. I know you will accomplish anything you put your mind to in life because you have taught me to never give up and always give 110%! Good luck and I love you!!!

Love,
 Your little sis, Lexie
