

What do you remember?

Look around you. Take it all in.

The bricks that make up the classroom you're sitting in. The paint colors that make you queasy. The teacher you like; the subject you hate. The desks. The chime of the bell. The clash of locker doors slamming. The roar of pep rallies. Spelling bees and science fair projects. Your friends and your mentors. All of these mundane events blend into the background to become just a part of the normal routine.

Now, think back to this year, the one we'll soon be finishing. What jumps out at you? Perhaps you saw a fire truck up close for the first time. Or maybe your class visited the "Corn Maze" or slept with the sharks. You might think back to your first call from "Kate," the hurricane holiday we enjoyed in August, or the rare snowflakes we saw in November. Also vivid are memories of football championship games, Spanish class fiestas, and Quiz Bowl victories. And who will ever forget the day Ross "pied" Coach at the Pep Rally!!

The combination of ordinary routines and extraordinary moments create those memories that will stick with you for years to come.

Which parts you choose to remember and enjoy are up to you, but they will always be a reminder of the times you spent with friends....

Lasting Impressions
that you will cherish for a lifetime.
