Bariel Patrick is nervous. It's quiet, as silent as the vacuum of space. But Daniel hears something. He hears his a vace in his head. "Every shot counts," that voice in his head says. "It can mean the difference between first and second. Between win and lose. Your whole team could win and lose because of you!" He tries to ignore as he grabs his club, and and approaches the hole....He lines up his shot, prepares to swing....

Golf has a reputation as a boring sport. But it doesn't seem that way to Daniel.
