

For The Fun Of It

The J.V. Girls' basketball team acquired a new coach for the 1982-83 season. Mrs. Mildred Ulmer, who had played for North Greenville College, came in to guide the Little Lady Warhawks. By the end of the season, she felt that the girls had learned the fundamentals of basketball and how to play as a team. The squad showed tremendous determination and effort throughout the season even though they were not very successful on the scoreboard. After all, winning should not be the most important aspect of playing sports, trying should!

Wendy Litchfield leaps into the air to tip the ball to one of her teammates.

Connie Craven hustles down court to keep Willington from scoring an easy two.
