

STARTING OUT YOUNG

With five new cheerleaders, the Junior Varsity squad had to almost start new. The new cheerleaders had to learn cheers, experience their first hectic week of camp and, along with the other five, had to cheer their team to victory.

At camp, the squad improved so much. They were chosen to compete in the final day evaluation. Even though they didn't win, they brought the "spirit stick" home for all their hard work.

Practices kept the squad extremely busy throughout the year. They had to paint posters, plan pep rallies and help out the varsity cheerleaders by selling programs at home football games. Each one had to give 100% effort for the year to be successful, and they must have, because it was a great success.

Freshmen, Teri Hudson and Keri Holmes and seventh grader Ashley Biggers raise their spirits high at a J.V. pep rally.

Everything has to be ready for the Hawks to "raid" the Raiders.

The tunnel is traditional for the football games at John C. Let's go Hawks!
