

Winning Isn't Everything

THE 1989-90 Varsity Football team worked hard all year. Mr. Brittle was head coach. Hours of practicing in the hot sun and running plays took control of much of their life. Their final record was 3-7. This record did not even come close to representing the actual football team. These boys played and gave their all each and every time they went on the football field.

Three of the football games were only lost by a few points. When John C. played Mims Academy the final score was 14-17. Homecoming night, John C. played First Baptist. Since it was Homecoming, the War

Hawks tried especially hard. This was the best football game of the season. Although there was controversy over several calls, the Hurricanes found a way to get past the Hawks and win in overtime 28-22. Parents' Night came to John C. with Thomas Heyward against the Hawks. After a close game, Thomas Heyward managed to sneak by with a 19-13 win over John C.

Close games like these seem to make a team stronger, even if they did not win. By the end of the season the Varsity Football team knew that the old saying applies. "Winning isn't everything, it's how you play the game."
