

Radiating

With Spirit

Along with being a Junior Varsity Cheerleader, there were responsibilities other than cheering. The cheerleaders had to staple and sell programs, and generated spirit at the pep-rallies. Being a Junior Varsity Cheerleader meant getting involved and putting forth 100% effort into every activity. They had boundless amounts of energy, true spirit for their school, and a knack for poster painting. By cheering teams to victory, they gained experience and also reaped fun at the same time. Showing a style all their own, the J.V. cheerleaders grew from individuals to a family.

The Junior Varsity Cheerleaders hold the banner against First Baptist so our boys can run through it.

Holly Davenport and Paige Headden "jump for joy" over cheerleading.

The J.V. Cheerleaders perform a cheer to boost morale at the game.

