

Dr. Emelia and Ken Williams
Teaming With Clemson University

The Clemson University Youth Learning Institute (YLI) was established to help the University achieve its goal for impacting youth and families. YLI has partnered with Youth Without Borders which is a non-profit organization which offers scholarships and financial assistance to young students and families aimed at creating unique leadership and new learning experiences that extend to their communities and beyond.
Left: Dr. Emelia Williams

The vision of Youth Without Borders is to expose youth to diverse experiences through exchange of ideas in other cultural environments; thus helping students to reach their full potential and providing future leadership to the global community.

Right: Mr. Ken Williams, graduate of Ruffin High School

Youth Without Borders

RMS would like to extend a special thanks to Mrs. Sonya Williams, below, for her diligence in working with both the students and YWB to ensure that every student met the requirements in order to participate in this inspiring program!

Thanks to our Superintendent Mr. Charles Gale for being in attendance at our assembly to introduce Youth Without Borders.

Recipients of Scholarships:
Tiffany Brown, Antoinette Fryar, Drew Judy, Katherine Judy, Glotavia Morris, Angel Risher, Janashia Robinson, Brittany Sanders
