Speak a modern language!

This emphasis is receiving almost unrivalled importance in the foreign language field. "And," says the French Club, "what tongue is better spoken than French?" Its members have been seen fluently conversing the language over the original and since imitated "French table" scheduled every two weeks at lunch-time. The club obtained a subscription to Le Monde, the Sorbonne's newspaper; and students discovered that they could also enjoy school issues of French magazines. Delightful pictures of France were shown at two meetings. In addition, the club had a successful Christmas party.

The officers organized the club more tightly with a set of by-laws. Moreover, they enthusiastically revived the idea of a newspaper written entirely in French. A staff was formed and began with a Christmas issue. Le Cercle Francais has certainly succeeded in furthering language appreciation among us.

Led by their sponsors, Miss Campbell and Mrs. Koons, the senior school chapter of the Junior Red Cross completed a year of worthwhile activities. Work began in the summer when junior volunteers were provided for Jefferson Barracks Hospital. Bloodmobiles were also provided with extra help.

Two important drives were led: the first for members and the second for money. The largely successful membership drive took place in November. Later in the year a bake sale was held to earn money for such projects as the overseas chest.

Two real compliments were paid our Red Cross organization when Ronald Moch was elected one of two students to hold a position on the Webster Groves Region Board of Directors, and Susan Vesper was elected President of the Webster Groves Region Interscholar Council.

What a nice pencil sharpener.
