Formal education in Colleton County dates back to the time when it was still a colony under England.

Establishment of the first actual school in Walterboro was one begun by Rev. J.B. van Dyke in 1827. It was called the Walterboro Academy.

At different intervals schools sprang up in the Walterboro area. Many of these gradually discontinued while others remained.

After the academy was destroyed in the Cyclone of 1870, another building was erected on the present site of the elementary school.

The present High School was built in 1925. The cost of construction was $75000. Since this time many additional buildings have been added for adequate space and additional subjects.

Walterboro High School has and shall continue to produce citizens which prove its worth.
