Dear Polly McLeod:

Now I know why the producer of my television show won't allow me to select the actresses we use for guest talent. I can't resist a beautiful face, with the result that I want to choose all of them.

However, since I must abide by your instructions and select only one to serve as the reigning queen for your yearbook, the vote goes to the very attractive young lady designated to me by the letter "B".

Please convey my congratulations to the winner and assure the runners-up that they could rate co-star billing on my show any time they let me take on the casting chores.

With best regards to you, the student body and your school faculty -

Sincerely,

Tab Hunter
