

Participating in sports is also important. You learn to get along with different people and to be a part of the team, not just an individual hero. And when the final whistle blows, you feel good knowing you have done your best to help the team, whether we win or lose.

HAPPINESS IS . . .

Competing

