

Winning fame and glory cannot be discarded, for these efforts serve as means of achieving success. Once we have tasted of the ambrosia of accomplishment, we are forever striving to fill ourselves with its sweetness.

This feeling of accomplishment stamps out all timidity and instills in us a warm certainty of utilizing our abilities and talents.

