

All Work and No Play or Is It No Work and All Play?

Work on the annual began in late spring with the selection of poor, unsuspecting victims as editors. Shipped off to Newberry College, they were plunged into the fascinating and frustrating world of annual creation. Ideas on ad promotion and imaginative ideas on copy and design were discovered at the Virginia Beach Yearbook Seminar in August. Between going to the beach, to cookouts, dances, or movies, Ms. McIntyre, Virginia Youmans, Deborah Jackson and Joseph Reid struggled with devising a theme and designing an introduction.

Hashing out copy problems during the year with other members of the staff often led the conversation widely astray. Embarrassing pictures provided opportunities for a little blackmail and friendly teasing. Suggestions for headlines really got out of hand.

Late Wednesday afternoons and long Saturdays' work paid off with several celebration parties for the staff. With these parties serving as incentive, our annual staff had the best production schedule, of any ICP staff in the state of South Carolina.

Activity Editor Hermene Nettles obtains information from Robbie Robertson for her section.

Annual advisor Connie McIntyre prepares to cover the pep assembly in the gym.

Kenny Savage takes a load off his feet while writing captions for the Faculty Section.