

Amanda A. Smith, Walterboro, South Carolina, Furman University, Business Subjects.

Vicki W. Smith, Walterboro, South Carolina, University of S.C., Civics.

John L. Smoak, Walterboro, South Carolina, Baptist College at Charleston, Art I.

G. L. Spruill, Hampton, South Carolina, S.C. State College, Tuskegee Institute, Chemistry, General Math II

Douglas L. Stephens, Ruffins, South Carolina, Voorhees, S.C. State Colleges, Economics & Civics

John W. Stroman, Orangeburg, South Carolina, S.C. State College, Math Practical, I & II

A TEACHER'S DAY DOESN'T END AT 3:00

Teachers at Walterboro High all only have one job. During the day, they all have one major thing in common. That is being teachers. After school, they split-up into their very own special world. Some go to their housework.

Among the many household jobs, washing dishes is worst," says one teacher at WHS. We even have a teacher who doesn't like to remove dishes from the dishwasher. Is that incredible or is that incredible? Some teachers rake their yard, go bowling or watch T.V. We have a teacher who enjoys spending every Tuesday night at a local pizza restaurant.

The teachers at our school go through many things in the span of a day. Boy, are they glad for the afternoon!

Many teachers participate in community activities after school. Mrs. Bright takes an active role as she attends a Colleton High P.T.O. Meeting.