

Whether running through the halls or cheering in the stands at a pep rally seniors and juniors created a competitive atmosphere that was truly great. Everyone wanted to win, but when the truth prevailed, all students have won. They had given the players confidence to do their best every minute of every game. But when one thought about it, the students had also gained confidence in themselves which made each day that much easier to bare.

Baring days of exams, unwon games, and days of after school work, all became easier when the confidence turned into togetherness that made all students stand together. Togetherness that ran from sports, and band to every day student life. R.L.K.
