

Studying to pass and carrying books home made students realize that it would not be easy. Dreaming of the Honor Roll or just passing meant more books to carry home. Home went the Spanish, English, Algebra, and Chemistry books with problems that created genius or headaches.

Vocational Students typed, hammered, and fixed themselves into moments of pure exhaustion. Only to remember that they were preparing themselves for life.

So, on they all went studying, and typing until Together We Stood.

Carrying the whole ninth grade load, Crystal Hughes bends to carry her books.

Dedicating all efforts toward finishing work are Doris Gadsen and Jean Fishburne.
