

PHYLLIS BOWMAN CHECKS to see if she can scrape up enough change to buy her lunch.

To give restless students something to do during lunch time, the Student Council sponsored student games in the mini-Auditorium. Students volunteered to participate in "Family Feud" and "The Newlywed Game." The games were successful; students packed the mini-auditorium during both lunches, paying a ten cent admission charge. On second lunch, Greg Fennessey hosted the "Newlywed Game." Best friends Will Rogers and Elizabeth Parish competed with three other couples. "The games were fun," expressed Michael Mannerak, "but they would have been enjoyed more had there been supervision by the faculty to control the excited audience."
