

sports

Although academics was the main focus of school, sports was also a major aspect.

The varsity football team once again made the playoffs with a 10-2 record. Their only two losses were to Summerville and Hillcrest-Dalzelle — the final two games of the season. During the fall the cheerleading squad and the cross country and volleyball teams were also busy with games and meets.

The girls' and boys' basketball teams did not fare too well in wins and losses, but they had fun, which is what sports is all about.

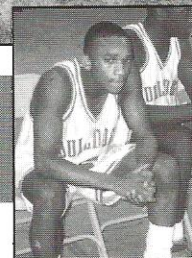

When spring rolled around the softball, baseball, soccer, golf, tennis and track teams were in full swing. Most started out with fundraising by selling candy or koozies in January and ended up in the playoffs around April or May.

Even though every game or match was not won, playing a sport gave students a chance to discipline themselves and make new friends.

— Bramlett Easterlin

Senior Angie Drawdy waits for football trainer Paskel Pye to wrap her ankle before a home football game. Trainers were helpful to athletes during games and practice.

Varsity football players pile on top of Chris Brownlee after he kicked the winning field goal in overtime. This win over Orangeburg-Wilkinson made the Dogs 3-0.

Basketball player Darryl Murray watches intently as his teammates are on the court.

Cross-country runners Heather McLaine and Liz Hughes wait patiently for a meet to begin.