

Just the Right MIX

When the school doors opened in August, some students did not know what to expect. Schedule changes and mix-ups helped contribute to the heavy load of the faculty, teachers, and students so early in the year.

When the passing of each month, things began to get busy. Some students planned for the Rice Festival, AP Exams, and the special event — the Prom. Along with those distractions came research papers, award banquets, and especially graduation.

Giving It Their All. Some juniors and seniors are inducted into the National Honor Society. This honor was given to those students who showed academic excellence.

Welcome to the Future. Latai Cain gives a friend a post-graduation hug. Some seniors knew that graduation would be the last time they would all be together.
