

Friday Night Football

Something for everyone

If you could be any football player in the NFL, who would it be, and why?

"Bret Favre, quarterback for the Greenbay Packers. He is my favorite player, and Green Bay is my favorite team. I hope they go to the Super Bowl."

— Jimmy Butler

"Troy Aikman, because he is cute. He plays for the Dallas Cowboys, which is my favorite team. I hope they make it to the Super Bowl."

— Virginia Risher

Wishing I could play. Senior football player Bradley Altman heads for the stands to support the Bulldogs. At a previous game, Bradley was seriously injured, putting him out for the season.

We've Got Spirit! Leah Steele paints Lauren Ulmer's face to show school spirit. Both were seniors on the varsity cheerleading squad.

Friday night football was not only on the football field; it was in the stands too.

Many people crowded into the Bulldog Stadium to support the Bulldogs and to catch up on gossip. School was out for the weekend, and all the students were excited.

Friday nights were nights to just let go. While some were watching the game, others made time to chat with friends.

"Walking around, talking to the boys, and chillin' with the girls is what I do during the games," said sophomore Tiffany Washington.

"During the games I walk around one time, look at the game and go home," said custodian Demetrius Gantt.

People participated in a variety of activities after the games.

"I go to my girlfriend's house and see what's up," said Johnny Green, number 43 on the football team.

"I go to McDonald's and get a large coffee, then go home," said Lieutenant Commander Armentrout.

The coaches, players, and audience were elated after wins. They were all looking forward to upcoming games.

"I celebrate the victory," said Coach Kinsey.

"While the coaches and players celebrated the victory, the audience partied.

"Partying 'till about 3:00 a.m. is what I do after the game," said senior Tressie Gates.

— Tynette Williams

More Than Football. Enjoying the game, friends Vicki Cunningham and Ana Matheson "hang out." Vicki was a member of the chorus while Ana was on the Journalism staff.