

"O Christmas Tree." Standing on her tip-toes, senior Margaret Young hangs a bell on the National Honor Society Angel Tree. Faculty and students had the chance to buy gifts for the needy children whose names appeared on the bells.

"Oh Say Can You See . . ." Chorus members prepare to sing the National Anthem and the Alma Mater before the Homecoming game. The chorus was always an important part of the festivities

Besides the classes required for graduation, you were given the opportunity to take elective classes, allowing you to develop interest in other areas. Those of you interested in the fine arts had the options of taking such classes as Band, Chorus, or art courses. The Vocational School offered hands-on experience in several work-preparation classes. Such organizations and groups as NHS, Student Council, NJROTC, and the Academic Team encouraged involvement in extra-curricular activities. Aside from the classroom atmosphere, you may have taken field trips to strengthen academic learning while having fun. Not only did academics offer you the core curriculum, but also other options for you to become well-rounded and open to new ideas and experiences.

— Ashley Heaton and Leah Steele