

Vacations for the Mind

Field trips provided an escape from the everyday routine.

“The Medieval Times atmosphere taught me a lot about the medieval way of life,” said senior Mary Beth Todd. Mary Beth’s twin sister Charlotte also visited Medieval Times. “I thought it was an excellent educational experience,” said Charlotte Todd.

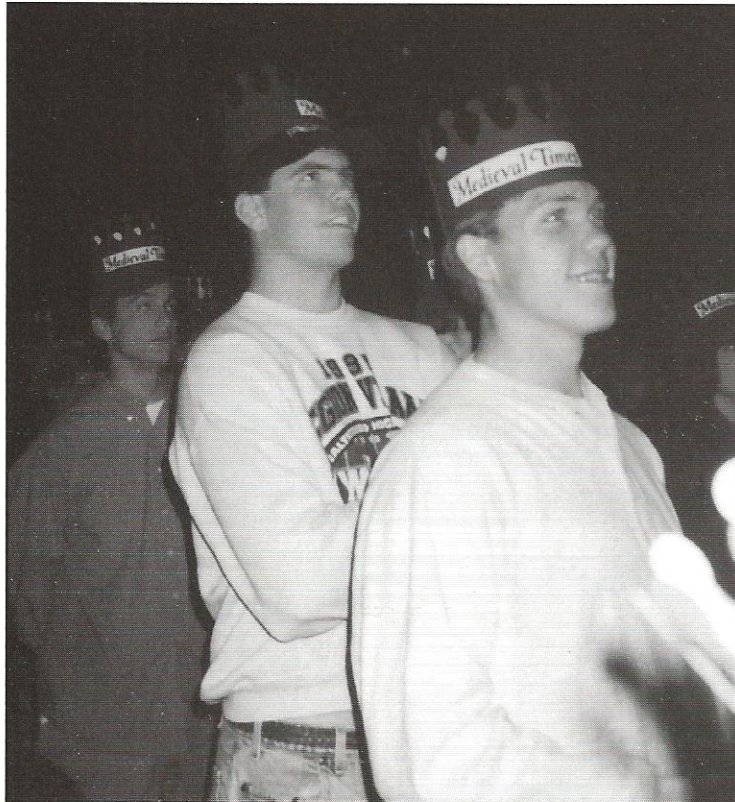

Every year students got the chance to get out and enjoy life away from the school. From a visit to a local museum to a medieval restaurant, students could get away from the hustle and bustle of school and just have fun.

“The Medieval Times trip offered a different learning experience for all of us,” said senior Michael Ward.

Mrs. Janis Blocker and Mrs. Patty Pawlack’s took classes to Myrtle Beach to attend Medieval Times. At Medieval Times students could eat with their hands and watch brave knights battle to defend their lady’s honor. Mrs. Blocker also took her students to Charleston to the Dock Street Theater. With plays like The King and I and The Glass Menagerie, it was sure to be an excellent learning experience. Mrs. Blocker’s AP students also attended the Shakespearean Festival sponsored by the NC Repertory Theater in Alexander Mills, North Carolina. The seniors saw scenes from six Shakespeare plays while the underclassmen were involved in BSAP or Mat 7 testing.

Mrs. Marilyn Zielke’s art students made several routine visits to the Artisan’s Center to look at the art work. Band students as well as Mrs. Stroble’s calculus students took separate trips to Six Flags in Atlanta. Funded by donut sales, several math teachers took their classes to Riverbanks Zoo in Columbia.

— Joseph Clute

What a Knight! Enjoying the pre-show festivities, Lonnie Nettles and Jason Craven along with the rest of the senior Honors English class have fun at Medieval Times at Myrtle Beach. Lonnie played varsity football while Jason practiced Martial Arts.

Chowing Down. Matt Creech and Beth Kitler eat a scrumptious meal at Applebee’s Neighborhood Bar and Grill. Mrs. Janis Blocker took her AP English students to Applebee’s after a play at the Dock Street Theater.

