the long and hot days of the short summer vacation

The school bell rang for the last time. The parking lot filled with students in a traffic jam. They all struggled to begin their vacation just a few seconds earlier than the next person. Summer finally arrived and not a moment too soon.

"I played softball all summer. The grueling days drained me, but it was worth it because I made a lot of new friends. I stayed in shape for the high school season," said senior Erin Driggers.

Every night felt like a weekend, which made most days full of fun. After having an exhausting summer day, one could go home and relax. One of the best things about summer was not having to worry about school the following day.

"I went to New Zealand and Australia over the summer. Flying overseas for the first time made me really nervous. The plane ride could have been faster, but once I got there, I didn't mind. The beaches and valleys were beautiful, and I actually went bridge climbing. This summer ranks up on the list as one of my favorite summers ever. I am planning on going back one day, and I cannot wait until I do," said senior Tiffany Doyle.

"I moved away this summer so I felt very lucky to get to visit Walterboro on the weekends. My dad got a new job, so I really didn't have a say in staying or leaving. I really enjoyed coming home because I got to see all my friends and my boyfriend. Living without everyone was very hard. Now I am living with my best friend Olivia Barnes and her family because I did not want to leave Walterboro and WHS," said senior JoBeth Banas.

The saddest part about summer came when the final days approached. The weather did not stop but the fun did. Time came to go shopping for back to school supplies and clothes. When the last day had ended and then bedtime came near, the next noise heard was the alarm clock going off. Time to get up and get dressed for the upcoming day in a classroom. School time again!

Arts and Crafts. Spending most of her summer making a stained glass window for her church, Mrs. Waddell was very proud of the finished product. St. Jude's was thankful and thrilled to display it.

Wilma and Betty? Going to Carowind's was an exciting summer trip for seniors Jenna Hampton and Jennifer Mason. They spent their days meeting people and riding different rides. Jennifer and Jenna have been best friends for a long time.
