Studying Hard. Ruffin combining brought new competition. “I know I’ll have to study a lot more next year to be at the top of my class,” junior Sagar Madhiwala said.

Walterboro High School students were given a survey concerning their feelings about next year. Their answers were as follows:

Social change can be an experience to remember. Students had to think that in a mere year, people from two totally different backgrounds will have to go through the hectic events of changing schools. The Ruffin Patriots along with the Walterboro Bulldogs will become the Colleton County Cougars.

“I just feel like they are taking our identity and that might cause some problems,” freshman Allen Brady said.

On the other hand, there were many positive attitudes in the face of this big change.

“I really am looking forward to the Ruffin students coming over here. I think it will do some good,” junior Hunter Thomas said.

The big question may have been: what good will come out of the two schools combining?

Freshman Nicole Bunton said, “When Ruffin comes, it will give me a chance to make new friends.”

Last football game. Football games are a fun time for students. “I wish we had a lot more games, but next year I’ll be able to meet new people at them,” sophomore Dana Garret said.
