

Marching to the beat. Counting to himself, junior Kenneth Saxby marches with his base drum. Third-year member Kenneth was a positive role model for the other drummers in the band. "I help keep everybody on the same tempo. We practice almost every afternoon because we want to win every competition possible," Kenneth said.

Tickling the ivories. Watching his every move, junior Evan Culpepper practices playing the keyboard before a chorus performance. "We sang the National Anthem and some oldies at the Student Council Convention. I liked singing the songs from Motown the best. They didn't let me play the keyboard during the performance because I'm not good enough yet."
